

MATT MCQUEEN

CHIEF COMMUNICATIONS OFFICER

As CCO, Matt serves as the company's senior communications advisor and leads an integrated team with responsibilities for branding, media relations, employee and executive communications, digital and social content, and tradeshows and events.

Prior to joining Peraton, Matt spent more than 18 years with Northrop Grumman, most recently as director of communications for its Cyber and Intelligence Mission Solutions and Space ISR Systems divisions. He also had responsibility for the enterprise cyber branding efforts.

He previously held senior leadership roles in strategic communications, government relations, strategic planning, and business development at Northrop Grumman.

Matt earned his bachelor's degree in international relations from the College of Wooster, and a master's degree in organizational science from The George Washington University.

Peraton provides innovative, reliable solutions to the nation's most sensitive and mission-critical programs and systems. As a trusted provider of highly differentiated space, intelligence, cyber, defense, electronic warfare, homeland security, and secure communications capabilities, Peraton is a critical partner to the Intelligence Community, Department of Defense, and select federal agencies and commercial entities. Headquartered in Herndon, Virginia, the company employs approximately 3,500 people across the U.S. and Canada.
